Dear Reviewer,

Thank you for taking the time to consider my application.

I am a driven graphic designer and marketing specialist with a background in development and three years of hands-on experience in online presence and branding. I would be thrilled to contribute my skills and energy to your team.

My experience spans a variety of environments—from small businesses to research laboratories—where I have consistently been recognized for my efficiency, clear communication, and positive attitude.

I have created marketing campaigns from the ground up, developing branding and associated materials for businesses across disciplines. I have experience across the entire marketing process, from ideation to design to printing and outreach. I work well with others, communicate clearly, and I am always receptive to feedback! I will invest as much as is needed into a campaign to make sure it is delivering on its promises.

I would be honored to speak further about how I could contribute to the team.

Best,

Stephanie Da Cruz
